Exploring Bergen

If this is your first time in Bergen and you want to explore the city, there are several things you can do.

You can visit Bryggen which is a very important historic area of Bergen, and it is also on the Unesco World Heritage list.

If you enjoy hiking, there are very nice and relatively short hikes you can do.
The Sandviken area, just behind Bryggen has charming wooden white houses. A good place to start is from the street "Nedre Stølen".
You can walk to "Skansen" where you find the old wooden fire station, and you will have a nice view over the city. From there you can continue up to Mount Fløyen. It will take you less than an hour on a gravel road to reach the top and you have a great view from the top.
Or you can take the funicular one way or both if you prefer. Travel time each way is 5-6 minutes.

Recently finalized Bergen's new nature trail, a 6 km spectacular walk along the mountain side just outside of the city centre.

In Bergen you find the oldest and biggest Aquarium in Norway. Located in Nordnes, which also has a nice park and charming streets with small wooden houses. It takes approximately 15 minutes to walk there from your hotel. On the way you can stop at the Magic ice bar.

We also have some very nice museums, KODE being the biggest with several exhibitions.
The University Museum of Bergen - Natural History reopened in 2019 after refurbishing and has some interesting exhibitions.
